Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136 (a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. This application has been filed with informal drawings which are acceptable for examination purposes only. Formal drawings will be required when the application is allowed.

Claim Rejections - 35 U. S. C. § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U. S. C. 102 (b) as being unpatentable over patent # 5,168,270 ("Masumori et al.").

As for claims 1-7, Masumori et al. teach a display unit which displays an image (column 1, lines 8-12); memories which store information regarding control of said display unit Fig.2 (11); an operation circuit unit which controls said display unit to display the image based on the information stored in said memories Fig.2 (10); a data bus which connects said memories to an exterior of said display device, and supplies the information to said memories from the exterior of said display device (column 5, lines 40-50); and an address bus which connects said memories to the exterior of said display device, and supplies address signals for selecting one of said memories Fig.2 (WCK, RCK, RE), a gate driver Fig.2 (122), a data driver (column 19, lines 11-18), a shift register (column 5, lines 51-68), a decoder (column 12, lines 5-12), an address counter (column 4, lines 58-68), memory store (column 1, lines 29-50), a data-synthesis circuit Fig.21 (20).

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S. C ,§ 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103 (a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention as made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103 (a) as being unpatentable over patent # 6,115,020 ("Masumori et al.") in view of patent # 6,121,949 ("Ramamurthy et al.").

As for claims 8-11, Masumori et al. teach a display device (column 1, lines 8-12) and a data bus (column 5, lines 40-50) and address bus Fig.2 (WCK, RCK, RE), a thin film transistor (column 11, lines 29-44). Accordingly, Masumori et al. teach all the claimed limitations as recited in claims 8-11 with the exception of providing a display-information acquisition circuit.

However, Ramamurthy et al. disclosed sensors 248 may be within the panel display 132 (Fig.4) and see (column 5, lines 1-35) corresponding to the display-information acquisition.

Art Unit: au 2674

It would have been obvious to utilize a display-information acquisition as taught by Ramamurthy et al. in the liquid crystal display disclosed by Masumori et al. because this would allow the display system to be manually or automatically modified such that the display image can be improved as operating conditions change.

Response to Amendment

Applicant's arguments filed on 8-20-2001 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The applicant argued that regarding the drawing Fig. 6 is that only objected figure, why the rest of the figures are not acceptable. In order the for all the figures to be acceptable, none of them can be objected. The applicant has to correct the objected one first.

The applicant argued that the prior art used, Masumori, does not disclose or suggest "control of the display unit is stored in the memories". Examiner disagrees because Masumori discloses the picture element data is stored in the memories (column 8, lines 40-62) corresponding to control of the display unit is stored in the memories. The claim limitation is so broad which makes it easy for just any display that is stored somewhere to read on it. The interpretation of the control of the display unit here is the picture element data which controls the display. Therefore the rejection stands as was rejected in the previous office action.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: au 2674

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
